

Glossy Addict

Wednesday, February 28, 2007

Detox In A Bottle: Function Urban Detox

feel better.

It's 7am and your alarm is ringing in your ear. You know you have to get up and go to work, but the room is spinning and the very thought of moving makes you violently ill. Do you have the flu? Some sort of virus? Nope...you're just paying the price for drinking one (or five) too many apple martinis last night.

If this sounds all too familiar to you (and we know it does), you may want to order a few cases of Function Urban Detox. This tasty little elixer does it all: protects your lungs and sinuses from airborne pollution, supports your liver and immune system, and (most importantly) corrects the nutritional deficiencies from excess alcohol consumption. Next time you wake up feeling like you were run over by a U-Haul truck just walk (or crawl) un over to your fridge, knock back one of these babies, and get ready to rejoin the living.

The only thing they can't help you cure is your embarrassment over your karaoke performance last night.

Function Urban Detox...$36.00 for 24 bottles (16 oz each)...Available at Function Drinks.